

(July 2019 – Los Angeles, CA)

Sun Air Jets is pleased to announce the appointment of Justin Sherrill as its Director of Aircraft Management. In this position, Justin will be responsible for all aspects of aircraft owner interaction, focusing especially on ensuring timely and accurate communication, as well as being the primary point of contact for any owner questions or concerns.

"Justin's experience and maturity in so many aspects of aviation make him a natural choice for this critical position," stated Brian Council, Sun Air's President and COO. "We expect him to further enhance the already high standards of customer service that Sun Air Jets is known for."

Justin brings over 10 years of aviation experience in his role working with aircraft owners and prospective clients for the managed fleet, as well as expanding business development opportunities for the company. Having previously worked in aircraft sales, management, and appraisals, clients rely on him as a trusted advisor for managing their aviation assets. He is a licensed pilot, remains actively involved with several aviation charities, and holds a bachelor's degree from UCLA.

About Sun Air Jets

Serving the greater Los Angeles area, Sun Air Jets continuously remains one of the safest rated private jet operators in the world. With bases in Camarillo and Van Nuys, the company's operations include charter, aircraft management, FAA Part 145 repair station, private hangars, as well as a full-service FBO at the company's KCMA headquarters. As one of the only private jet operators to obtain all four of the major safety audit standards, including IS/BAO, Wyvern Wingman, ARG/US Platinum, and Air Charter Safety Foundation, Sun Air Jets remains dedicated to serving aircraft owners and charter clients with world class levels of customer service and safety.